

Utah Construction Litigation Attorneys

Parr Brown's construction litigation attorneys have significant experience in prosecuting and defending cases in state and federal courts as well as resolving cases through alternative dispute resolution.

Our team of construction litigation attorneys represents contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, sureties, design professionals, construction managers, and owners in resolving complex construction disputes. Our construction litigation attorneys in Utah have extensive federal, state and administrative litigation and arbitration experience and resources to meet the needs of companies of all sizes, from pre-litigation to appeal. Representative services include

- Administrative appeals
- Breach of warranty
- Construction defect litigation
- Structural failure litigation
- ADR, including arbitration, mediation and "mini-trials"
- Design and workmanship deficiencies
- Changed conditions and cost overruns
- Wrongful termination
- Architectural and engineering malpractice
- Payment and performance issues
- Surveying errors
- Insurance coverage
- Job-site injury
- Professional fee disputes
- Bid disputes
- Industrial claims
- Warranty issues
- Deceptive trade practices
- Fraud

Contact A Leading Construction Litigation Attorney

Our Utah construction litigation attorneys are looking forward to helping you resolve any aspect of your construction litigation needs. For immediate assistance or more information regarding Utah construction litigation or your legal concerns, complete this form or reach out to any of our experienced construction litigation lawyers shown below.